"Welcome To An Historic Seaside Inn

Where Casual Elegance Abounds"

Candace Kadimik, Owner & Innkeeper

Sea Girt's Historic Beacon House

The Beacon House was built circa 1879 with lumber that came from the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition of 1876. When the Exhibition closed, many of the buildings, pavilions and exhibits were disassembled and the materials reused. The lumber was shipped by barge down the Delaware River and up the Atlantic Coast where it was unloaded on the beach and brought by horse to our present site.

The two buildings were constructed as private homes on what had formerly been potato fields. During the most recent phase of renovations, columns were uncovered that appear to have come from the entryway to the Centennial's Netherlands Pavilion. The stairways in both houses were originally part of the staircases in the Agricultural Exhibit building at the Centennial Exhibition. A beam in the Main House attic has the date "1879" carved in it.

In the late 1920's – early 1930's, the Westphal family converted the houses into an Inn that was open only during the summer season. In December 1998, after three generations in their family, I purchased The Beacon House, began numerous renovations, and extended the innkeeping season. All rooms now have private baths and are air conditioned, 7 private ocean view balconies have been added, many rooms have fireplaces, some have Jacuzzis, and the pool has been rebuilt and heated.

I am proud and honored to maintain the legacy of these historic buildings and delight in my ability to share them with you. Your stay at The Beacon House, just a block from one of the finest beaches at the Jersey shore, with a private pool and wonderful amenities, makes for an incomparable getaway. Please join us soon!
